Although I was lucky enough to enroll into an extended maths class, where I learnt the advanced maths like calculus, I didn't pay much effort into it and eventually got a near pass. The point is that this advanced maths course is an extension to the normal maths class and most of the universities do not consider it as a valid subject.

This is not a closed-ended question as it may at first blush appear. Asking 19.0 to return 1 is an implementation detail regarding the internal storage of the value 19.0. The fact is that it is perfectly legitimate for the program to store this as 190×10^{-1} or 1900×10^{-2} or 19000×10^{-3} . All of those are equal.

New data about the science aptitude of boys and girls around the world inspires me to re-post this discussion from 2010. Math ability, in some societies, is gendered. That is, many people believe that boys and men are better at math than girls and women and, further, that this difference is biological (hormonal, neurological, or somehow encoded on the Y chromosome).
