Here are some other common mistakes that might sink your boat: Clogged scuppers: If you leave your boat docked year round, dirt, leaves and other debris could plug the scuppers and cause your ship to sink. If the suppers are clogged, water will not be able to empty. Avoiding routine maintenance: Make sure to perform seasonal maintenance on the boat properly. Failure to replace cracked or worn rubber on the stern-drive, for example, could cause leaks that will sink your ship.
